

Ready to make a difference at MIT and the world around you?
Apply for a paid position as a Service Learning Corps Member!

The service learning staff at the MIT Public Service Center are seeking students for the Service Learning Corps. Students will work with peers, faculty, and community partners to develop curriculum to address community issues and advance Service Learning at MIT. Through these collaborations, students will develop valuable teamwork, networking, and organization skills. Finally, students will be able to contribute to a sustainable solution to various community needs.

The responsibilities will be to:

- * Assist service learning staff with publicity, organization, and recruitment.*
- * Work with faculty to brainstorm, develop, and design service learning projects.*
- * Reach out to community organizations for potential partnerships with faculty.*
- * Identify existing service learning classes.*
- * Analyze service learning prospects.*
- * Administer assessments.*
- * Document and evaluate experiences, ideas, and feedback.*

Ideal candidates will be creative, hard-working, organized, and ready to make a difference at MIT and the world around them. Interested candidates should e-mail resume and cover letter to Justen K.J. Cantan.
