

MIT Biology is proud to present the IAP Program,

Life After MIT

Taking the Next Step

In Academic Science

This program will cover non-traditional paths for Biology Ph.D.s.
Please join us at these exciting seminars featuring speakers who are at the top of these respective fields.

IAP 09

M

T

W

Th

F

Postdoc Boot Camp

Debra Martin, Vice President for Research Office
Brenda Minesinger, Postdoctoral Fellow,
Member Postdoctoral Advisory Council
Fred Crowley, Controller's Accounting Office
Robin Baughman, Housing Office
Linda Patton, Housing Office
Mandy Chann, HR Benefits
Lucy Walsh, Medical Department
Colleen Leslie, Office of Sponsored Programs

Tuesday January 13th, 1–2:30pm, 68-181

Are you wondering what it means to be a postdoc at MIT? What benefits are you eligible for? What is your exact status and how does that impact your time here? These questions and more will be addressed by a panel of speakers focusing on issues for postdocs. If you've just come to MIT, be sure to come and get some facts.

Presented by the Biology Postdoc Association at MIT and Biology graduate students.
No enrollment limit, no advance sign up prereq: none.
Participants welcome at individual sessions.

Web: <http://web.mit.edu/biology/www/biology/iap.html>

Contact: Michael Hemann, E17-128B, x4-1964, hemann@mit.edu
Sponsor: Biology

Women in Science

Laurie Boyer, Assistant Professor, Department of Biology, MIT

Alice Flaherty, Director,
Movement Disorders Fellowship MGH & Assistant Professor, Harvard

Julie Kauer, Professor,
Department of Molecular Pharmacology, Physiology, Brown University

Susan Leeman, Professor,
Department of Pharmacology, Boston University School of Medicine

Friday January 23rd, 1–2:30pm, 68-181

A growing number of women have made enormous contributions to research science, however, there are specific challenges faced by women in academic science even today. Faculty will share with us their experiences.

Finding a Faculty Position

Dennis Kim, Assistant Professor of Biology, MIT
Wendy Gilbert, Assistant Professor of Biology, MIT
Joel Neilson, Postdoctoral Fellow, Department of Biology, MIT

Tuesday Jan 27th, 1–2:30pm, 68-181

Looking for a professorship is a daunting process. What do search committees look for? Where do you find more about jobs? What questions should you ask? What do you need to keep in mind? Come find out from faculty and a faculty candidate from MIT who have experienced both sides of the fence!

Finding a Postdoc

Dr. Philip Sharp, Professor, MIT

Dr. Peter Reddien, Assistant Professor, MIT

Dr. Leslie Pond, Scientific Education Manager, Novartis Postdoctoral Program

Dr. Graham Ruby, Postdoctoral Fellow UCSF

Dr. Caterina Schweidenback, Postdoctoral Fellow, Harvard Medical/MGH

Wednesday, January 28th, 2:30–4:00pm, 68-181

Are you interested in doing a postdoc? Want to learn about an industry postdoc? Come hear about the application and interview process from current postdocs who have been through it. Find out what makes a good postdoc candidate from a faculty perspective, and get answers to questions about industry postdocs.

Teaching Positions

Richard Goldsby, Professor of Biology, Amherst College
Melissa Kosinski-Collins, Assistant Professor of Biology, Brandeis University
Elizabeth Oakes, Instructor in Chemistry, Wellesley College

Monday, January 26th, 1–2:30pm, 68-181

Being a faculty member at a liberal arts college has its own challenges. Learn about the the diverse opportunities available as faculty at a small college.

Whether its balancing teaching and research or meeting the demands of being a full-time lecturer come hear how this juggling act really happens!