

Stanford | Pre-Collegiate Institutes

WORK AT STANFORD THIS SUMMER!

Stanford Pre-Collegiate Institutes is hiring undergraduates, recent graduates, and graduate students to work at Stanford as Residential Counselors for its residential academic summer programs. The Residential Counselor position includes both instructional and residential responsibilities. Stanford Pre-Collegiate Institutes offers two-to-four week sessions for academically talented middle- and high-school students from June 17 to August 8, 2015.

"Truly, one of the best & most meaningful summers of my life!" — Residential Counselor, 2014

RESPONSIBILITIES

- ✓ Serve as a teaching assistant
- ✓ Mentor students from around the world
- ✓ Supervise students and respond to incidents
- ✓ Lead recreational activities

QUALIFICATIONS

- ✓ Creative and positive attitude
- ✓ Adaptability and willingness to complete hard work
- ✓ Demonstrated responsibility and leadership skills
- ✓ Ability to make decisions and enforce rules
- ✓ Previous teaching or tutoring experience desirable
- ✓ Summer camp experience or experience working with students ages 11–17 is also desirable

EXPERIENCE WITH COLLEGE-LEVEL COURSEWORK IN THESE AREAS

Anthropology	Humanities
Biology	International Relations
Business	Legal Studies
Chemistry	Mathematics
Creative Writing	Music
Computer Science	Philosophy & Literature
Economics	Physics
Engineering	Playwriting
Environmental & Earth Sciences	Political Science
Expository Writing	Psychology
History	Screenwriting
	Sociology

WHEN June 17 – August 8, 2015

SALARY $630/week plus full room & board

"I loved the job and would do it again in a heartbeat." — Residential Counselor, 2014

➦ For more information and to apply, visit:

spcs.stanford.edu/institutes-jobs