

WGS 645

Women in Contemporary
U.S. Science

Tuesdays @ MIT
5:00 – 8:00 PM
January 30 – May 8

Using a variety of disciplinary lenses, this course explores the factors that impede women from successful participation in STEM careers in the U.S. Our investigation will range from what happens in the educational system to women scientists in the workplace to programs that are designed to support and promote women in STEM.

Gerhard Sonnert, Harvard University
&
Kathrin Zippel, Northeastern University