

Go Global with McKinsey

International networking reception

April 20th, 2018, New York City

Are you an international student interested in making a difference in your home country?
Are you passionate about developing markets and interested in working in one of our McKinsey offices outside of the US?

We would like to invite you to our 'Go Global with McKinsey' International networking reception on Friday, April 20th in New York City. This is an excellent opportunity to meet our consultants from a wide range of global geographies/offices and learn more about our work and people outside of the United States. We will have a global Partner as a guest speaker and there will be a chance for you to chat to our colleagues over food and informal networking. Our McKinsey consultants and team members from across Asia, Europe, Africa, Latin America and other global locations are excited to meet you on the day.

How to apply

To express your interest in attending, we kindly ask you to submit your CV and transcripts on our website www.mckinsey.com/GoGlobalWithMcKinsey. Please include your language fluency and office interests as directed.

Deadline for registration

Sunday, March 11th, 2018
11:59pm ET

As space at this event is limited, we plan to get back to you at least 2 weeks prior to the event to let you know if you have been successful in securing a spot. McKinsey will cover a portion of your travel expenses (within North America only) associated with this event.

Eligibility for event

- Bachelor's, Non-MBA Masters, PhD & Post-doc students graduating in 2019 or 2020 from US Universities only
- Our McKinsey global offices require fluency in the local language in order to be considered
- Candidates who are currently enrolled in an MBA program are not eligible to attend. We encourage you to refer to our main website www.mckinsey.com/careers for upcoming MBA specific events
