Clarissa Roque	No contact.	http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=nfwnn0M4N8Y	clararroque@yahoo.com.br
Joshua Kastorf	I could shoot the video, do the post-production work you describe, and upload to TechTV for $300. For captioning I would charge an additional $400 (for just the lecture) or $450 (to include the Q&A). (I know this may seem like a lot compared to the quote for just the video, but the captioning would be a labor-intensive process.)	His website is www.8thmuse.com .	works here at MIT is looking for video work. His email is jkastorf@mit.edu .
Upland Productions	Upland Productions used by Tech Review and Sloan.	We are no longer taking on new client work.	contact21@uplandproductions.com
DigiNovations	The single camera rate is $150/hour, with a 3 hour	http://www.diginovations.com	DigiNovations 978-371-3370

	minimum(which does include the setup and breakdown time).          To add the titles, credits, and any other graphics would be $125/hour(with no minimum          For sub-titling, we can either do that in the edit-at the same rate- or we could look at a solution from one of our partners(3Play Media)- they have a transcript and closed captioning service that integrates well with our KnowledgeVision and Brightove products          We film everything in XDCAM EX(HD) and can deliver jsut about any format you need.          And if it helps in the decision process, I would be happy to waive the shoot minimums-and just bill actual time(in case the event is short). I'll also include the transcoding to any format at no charge.		michael@diginovations.com  shawn@diginovations.com
