

HARVARD-MIT SEMINAR IN ENVIRONMENTAL ECONOMICS AND POLICY

Harvard ENR-551y/Econ 2690hf
Robert Stavins and Martin Weitzman
<http://www.courses.fas.harvard.edu/~ec2690hf/>
MIT Econ 14.391
Michael Greenstone
Fall 2004, Wednesday, 4:00-5:30 p.m.

Sponsored by a grant from 3M to MIT and by the Harvard Department of Economics

- September 15 (Harvard) Student Orientation
- September 29 (Harvard) Nicolas Treich, University of Toulouse. "Can Uncertainty Alleviate the Commons Problem."
- October 13 (MIT) Roberton Williams, University of Texas. "An Estimate of the Optimal Second-Best Gasoline Tax Considering Efficiency and Equity."
- October 20 (MIT) Rema Hanna, MIT. "The Impact Of Environmental Regulation on Foreign Direct Investment: Evidence From U.S. Firm Level Data."
- November 3 (Harvard) William Pizer, Dallas Burtraw, Winston Harrington, Richard Newell, and James Sanchirico, Resources for the Future. "Modeling Economy-wide vs Sectoral Climate Policies"
- November 10 (Harvard) Geoffrey Heal, Columbia Business School, and Howard Kunreuther, University of Pennsylvania. "Vaccination and the Spread of Infectious Diseases."
- November 17 (Harvard) Christian Gollier, University of Toulouse. "Discounting the Future When Growth is Predictable"
- December 1 (MIT) Joshua Lin, MIT. "Energy Prices and Technology Adoption in Manufacturing."
- December 6 (MIT) Michael Greenstone and Justin Gallagher, MIT. "Does Hazardous Waste Matter? Evidence from the Housing Market and the Superfund Program." [This Monday session is joint with the MIT Public Economics-Labor Seminar.]
- December 8 (MIT) Dan Black, Thomas Kniesner, and Lily Liu, Syracuse University. "On the Identification of the Job Risk Hedonic."

NOTE: The location of sessions is given in parentheses after each date. The Harvard location is Room L-332, John F. Kennedy School of Government, 79 John F. Kennedy Street. The MIT location is Room 151, Building E51, at the intersection of Amherst and Wadsworth Streets. For further information, please contact Professor Stavins' assistant, Jennifer Shultis (617-496-8054 or jennifer_shultis@harvard.edu), Professor Greenstone's assistant, Denise MacDougall (617-253-3971 or dmac@mit.edu), or the seminar web sites.