

Position	Entry-Level Game Developer
Position ID	11DEV01
Position Location	Robot Entertainment, Inc. office located in Plano, Texas, USA (20 miles North of Dallas)

General Description

Robot Entertainment is looking for motivated, talented entry-level game developers to join its staff. These individuals will have a wide variety of responsibilities and will be expected to participate with our team in the entire life cycle of creating and supporting our computer and console gaming entertainment products. This is an excellent opportunity for a recent or upcoming graduate with a strong programming background looking to enter the computer games industry.

Desired Skills & Experience

- Programming knowledge and experience using C++, preferably demonstrated on game- and technology-related projects while enrolled at university;
- A programming internship in the games industry during university is also desirable.

Desirable Skills & Experience

The ideal candidate...

- Plays and enjoys computer, mobile, and console games;
- Displays passion for the technology and design of games, how they work, and how to build them;
- Exhibits intellectual curiosity, is unafraid to take risks and try new technologies, and is able to learn quickly and effectively in a free-form environment;
- Has a working knowledge of C++;
- Has made games or game mods in their spare time and has gone “above and beyond” to learn how games work;
- Has a working knowledge of 3D math/graphics or physics;
- Possesses good written and oral communication skills;
- Takes ownership and is a self-starter;
- Possesses the ability to work collaboratively as part of a development team.

Educational Requirements

BS/BA/MS degree in Computer Science or a related field.

This is a full-time, professional exempt position. Open to United States citizens or those individuals who are legally residing and working in the USA. Robot will not facilitate or sponsor candidates for US work visas or US residency “Green Cards” for this position.

Qualified responses should be directed to recruiting@robotentertainment.com. Please indicate Position ID 11DEV01.
