

TENURE-TRACK/TENURED POSITION

HISTORY OF
SCIENCE/MEDICINE/TECHNOLOGY

DEPT OF HISTORY,
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY

History of science, technology, or medicine. The Department of History at Northwestern University invites applications from historians of science, technology, and medicine, without limitation by time period, geographical focus or subfield, for a tenure-track assistant professorship or tenured associate professorship, depending on the qualifications of the applicant. The person hired also will join Northwestern's Science in Human Culture Program, <http://www.shc.northwestern.edu/>. Applications should include a cv, brief personal statement, writing sample, and three confidential letters of reference (sent separately). All materials must be submitted electronically via the link on our departmental website at <http://www.history.northwestern.edu/>. Applications are due by November 1, 2011. Women and members of minority groups are encouraged to apply. AA/EOE. Procedural questions may be addressed to Eric West at e-west@northwestern.edu; substantive questions may be addressed to Ken Alder at k-alder@northwestern.edu.