DEPARTMENT OF SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY STUDIES

CORNELL UNIVERSITY

Visiting Position in Science & Technology Studies

The Department of Science & Technology Studies at Cornell University invites applications for a visiting position. We are particularly interested in applicants in the areas of environment, public health, and/or the life sciences. Specific teaching needs include one first-year writing seminar and one small undergraduate lecture course in "science, technology, and policy." Other teaching possibilities include a senior seminar or another undergraduate course based on the individual's interests. This position may be a visiting assistant professor, visiting senior lecturer, visiting lecturer, or postdoctoral associate. Title will be commensurate with experience. This appointment is for one-year with a possibility for renewal for an additional year but contingent upon availability, satisfactory performance and funding.

A Masters is required; Ph.D. is preferred in science & technology studies or a closely related field, such as anthropology, history or sociology of science, technology, or medicine. The successful candidate should also have demonstrated teaching ability.

Review of applications will begin on March 13, 2017; applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled. If you are interested in this position, please apply on-line through the following website:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/8940>. Applicants should submit a cover letter outlining research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, a sample of written work, and one paragraph descriptions of two or three courses.
