

DEPARTMENT OF SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY STUDIES
CORNELL UNIVERSITY

Visiting Assistant Professor in Science & Technology Studies-2022-2023 Academic Year

The Department of Science & Technology Studies at Cornell University invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor for the 2022-2023 academic year. The successful candidate will teach three courses over the course of the academic year. In the Fall semester, the successful candidate would teach an upper-level Senior Seminar course in the area of their choosing within the subject area of Biology & Society. In the Spring semester, the successful candidate would teach a lecture course “Ethics and the Environment” (STS/BSOC 2061), which explores economic, epistemological, political, and social issues connected to the environment. The second course taught would be another Senior Seminar within the subject area of Biology & Society.

A PhD degree is required in Science & Technology Studies or a closely related field such as anthropology; history; or sociology of the environment, medicine, science, or technology. The successful candidate must also have demonstrated teaching ability.

Applications must be submitted through Academic Jobs Online at the following link: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/21083>. Please submit a cover letter describing your research and outlining your teaching interests, a diversity statement, a curriculum vitae, sample syllabi, and the names of three references that speak to your teaching ability. Review of applications will begin on March 1, 2022; applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled.
