

ASSISTANT/ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF SUPPLY CHAIN MANAGEMENT
The University of Memphis

Description

The Department of Marketing & Supply Chain Management in the Fogelman College of Business & Economics is seeking a tenure-track Assistant/Associate Professor in Supply Chain Management (SCM) for fall 2015, pending available funding. The primary teaching responsibilities for this position will include in-person and online sections of undergraduate SCM courses, with future teaching responsibilities in upper-division undergraduate and graduate SCM courses. The faculty member must be willing to work closely with the Memphis-area business community and play an active role in the leadership and development of the SCM program. The individual is also expected to maintain a stream of quality research, participate in departmental activities, and fulfill professional and university service responsibilities.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. in supply chain management, logistics, or a related discipline from an AACSB-accredited college of business is required. Effective college teaching experience, a commitment to teaching excellence, and evidence of strong research potential are required for Assistant Professor. Candidates for Associate Professor must also have substantial professional experience and a strong record of scholarly research.

Compensation

This is an academic-year appointment and offers competitive compensation, summer research support, and an attractive benefits program, depending on qualifications.

The College

The Fogelman College of Business & Economics has become a leading business school in the Southeast. Globalization is a strategic emphasis of the College. Degree programs offered include the BBA, MA (Economics), MBA, Executive MBA, International MBA, MS, and PhD. The academic programs of the College are fully accredited by AACSB International. The College faculty of 96 serves nearly 3,100 students, with approximately 2,450 undergraduates, 525 master's students and 80 doctoral students. The highly qualified faculty is recognized for scholarship and publications in leading academic and professional journals.

The University

The University of Memphis is emerging as one of America's great metropolitan research universities. Founded in 1912, the University is a state, tax-assisted institution with an enrollment of 21,000 students. The University is the flagship of the Tennessee Board of Regents system and is one of two comprehensive doctoral-granting public institutions in Tennessee, offering a broad array of degree programs at all levels. The University has 24 Chairs of Excellence, more than any other Tennessee university, and five state-approved Centers of Excellence. The modern and beautifully landscaped campus is centrally located in an attractive residential area of east Memphis. For additional information about the University, visit the Web site at: <http://www.memphis.edu>.

The Community

Located in southwestern Tennessee on the banks of the Mississippi river, Memphis is one of the South's largest and most attractive cities. In 2013, the population of Memphis was over 660,000, with over 1.2 million in the metropolitan area. Memphis is home to many nationally and internationally known companies, including four Fortune 500 companies: FedEx Corporation, AutoZone, International Paper, and ServiceMaster. Memphis is a major distribution center and boasts the world's second busiest cargo airport. As a primary medical, education, communication, and transportation center, Memphis offers a full range of research opportunities and cultural experiences. The city, known worldwide for its musical heritage, has many fine restaurants, theaters, and museums, as well as one of the nation's largest urban park systems. Memphis has one of the lowest costs of living among metropolitan cities of 600,000 or more and enjoys a mild climate.

Application

Application should include a cover letter, detailed curriculum vitae, research sample, unofficial transcripts, summaries of teaching evaluations, the names and contact information of three professional references, and be made online at: <http://workforum.memphis.edu>. Screening of applications begins September 15, 2014, and may continue until the position is filled.

The University of Memphis, a Tennessee Board of Regents Institution, is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants are urged to apply for this position. Appointment will be based on qualifications as they relate to the position requirements without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, age, disability, or veteran status.