

Clinical Professor -Supply Chain Management - Full Time -The University of Tennessee's Haslam College of Business invites applications for this open-rank Clinical Professor position with an emphasis in supply chain management (SCM), sourcing/supply management, or a related field. The Knoxville campus of the University of Tennessee seeks candidates who have the ability to contribute in meaningful ways to the diversity and intercultural goals of the University. This non-tenure track position will reside within the Department of Supply Chain Management. The chosen candidate will have responsibility for developing coursework for an online Master of Science in Supply Chain Management (MS-SCM) program and teaching courses in supply chain management. This open-rank Clinical Professor will be an integral member of the faculty group charged with delivering our new online Master of Science in Supply Chain Management. This new MS-SCM program will join other graduate programs within the Haslam College of Business SCM portfolio. S/he will report to the Department Head of Supply Chain Management and work under the direction of the Executive Director of the Global Supply Chain Institute and the Director of the MS-SCM program. S/he will have direct responsibility for developing and/or teaching courses for the online MS-SCM program, interfacing with an external online program management firm, and working closely with other faculty in support of program development. The successful candidate may also teach within the HCB Executive, Non-Degree, and/or Supply Chain undergraduate or graduate degree programs as determined by annual needs. Depending upon candidate qualifications, s/he also may assume program director responsibilities for the Executive MBA for Global Supply Chain and/or serve as a leader in our industry-focused research portfolio. The effective dates of employment will be August 1, 2019, or when filled. Compensation will be nationally competitive. Minimum Required Qualifications: A Ph.D. degree with an emphasis in supply chain management, sourcing/supply management, or a related field from an accredited institution; qualification and experience to be appointed as an Assistant/Associate/Full Clinical Professor; a minimum of 10 years progressively responsible experience within a business or relevant higher education context; a demonstrated record of high-quality and innovative teaching; a substantial level of familiarity with industry. Desired Qualifications: Experience with institutions recognized for their expertise in SCM; knowledge of both the operational and strategic importance of supply chain in both research and applied settings; experience teaching multiple subjects within SCM; experience with online delivery. Other highly desirable qualifications include a demonstrated ability to engage, inform, motivate and develop teams; the demonstrated ability to build connections with students and external university partners; an understanding of business school research and programming; experience in developing curricula; and the ability to work in a team-based, client-centered, fast-paced, and innovative setting. Haslam College of Business and Graduate & Executive Education Background the Haslam family provided a $50 million naming gift to the College of Business Administration in 2014. The Haslam College of Business is AACSB accredited, with over 130 faculty serving approximately 5,500 undergraduate and graduate students. Classes are taught in the state-of-the-art James A. Haslam II Business Building, which opened in 2009. The Haslam College of Business offers executive MBA degrees, as well as open-enrollment and customized continuing education programs. Graduate and Executive Education (GEE) in the Haslam College of Business is an innovative, high growth unit offering executive programs for working professionals, a nationally recognized full-time MBA program and specialty master's programs focused on building excellence in key areas such as accounting, supply chain, and business analytics. Within GEE, the Executive Education unit has four divisions, including Leadership, Supply Chain, Healthcare and Aerospace & Defense, with each division offering degree programs and executive education courses. Our faculty are consistently recognized for exemplary teaching contributions, and we care deeply about our students. The Knoxville Area Knoxville is located in east Tennessee, with a metro area of more than 500,000. It is near the Smoky Mountain National Park, Cherokee National Forest, and is known for outdoor activities and beautiful surroundings. Knoxville also enjoys a mild climate, an excellent downtown, very reasonable cost of living, and non-stop air service to seventeen cities nationwide. This moderate-sized city has a vibrant nightlife that includes numerous theaters and museums, traditional bluegrass music, world-class restaurants, lot of cultural festivals and a downtown market square to name a few examples. Knoxville is also home to several large corporations and near the Oak Ridge National Laboratory. Application Procedure We will begin reviewing applications immediately and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should forward a cover letter, current curriculum vitae (including a summary of recent teaching evaluation scores and teaching awards, as applicable), and the names and contact information of three references to scm@utk.edu, to the attention of: Dr. Shay Scott, Search Committee Chair Haslam College of Business 310 Stokely Management Center University of Tennessee, Knoxville, TN 37996 This position is subject to final university approval. All qualified applicants will receive equal consideration for employment and admissions without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, pregnancy, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, physical or mental disability, or covered veteran status. Eligibility and other terms and conditions of employment benefits at The University of Tennessee are governed by laws and regulations of the State of Tennessee, and this non-discrimination statement is intended to be consistent with those laws and regulations. In accordance with the requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, The University of Tennessee affirmatively states that it does not discriminate on the basis of race, sex, or disability in its education programs and activities, and this policy extends to employment by the University. Inquiries and charges of violation of Title VI (race, color, and national origin), Title IX (sex), Section 504 (disability), ADA (disability), and Age Discrimination in Employment Act (age), sexual orientation, or veteran status should be directed to the Office of Equity and Diversity (OED), 1840 Melrose Avenue, Knoxville, TN 37996-3560, telephone (865) 974-2498. Requests for accommodation of a disability should be directed to the ADA Coordinator at the Office of Equity and Diversity.