

The Craft of Scientific Presentations Workshop

MIT building 46, Picower Seminar Room 3310

43 Vassar Street, Cambridge, MA

Thursday, May 9th, 2013

6:00 to 8:30pm

Speaker:

Melissa Marshall, Senior Lecturer of Communication Art. & Sciences at Pennsylvania State University

Agenda:

6:00-6:30pm: Light dinner and networking

6:30-8:00pm: Workshop

8:00-8:30pm: Question and networking

Melissa Marshall is a crusader against bullet points and an evangelist for effective slide design. She is passionate about helping scientists and engineers give outstanding presentations because science not communicated is science not done. She believes the future health, happiness, and safety of our world depends on the innovations of scientists and engineers and she wants to help them tell the story of their work. Well-crafted presentations can be a catalyst for change.

Visit Melissa's website at http://www.ted.com/speakers/melissa_marshall.html

TO REGISTER AND FOR MORE INFORMATION, VISIT

<http://goo.gl/3NBhD>

MIT affiliates free • MASS AWIS members $10 • Non-MASS AWIS members $20

MIT affiliates and MASS AWIS members can bring friends at member fee!

Join AWIS to save money on events and to support our work! www.massawis.org

Sponsored By:

MIT Postdoctoral Association

MIT Brain and Cognitive Sciences Postdoctoral Association

MIT Global Education & Career Development (GECD) Office