

7th Annual

YOUNG INVESTIGATOR MEETING

BOSTON-2015

Explore the Opportunities

Applications are invited from fresh PhDs, M.Ds, postdocs and junior faculty (from all disciplines of science and engineering) keen on pursuing scientific career in India, to attend the seventh Annual Young Investigator Meet (YIM) Boston being held from Oct 10-12, 2015 at MIT, Cambridge MA.

'YIM Boston 2015' meet is an interactive platform for global scientists to learn about India's radically changing innovation system and its growing need for dynamic leaders. YIM is a unique opportunity for scientists to interact with leaders from Indian science and technology. Our elite panel comprises of prominent Indian scientists, policy makers, representatives from Indian funding agencies and industries, directors of major national institutes and clinicians. (Please refer to our website for speakers and participating institutes). Through series of structured talks and discussion forums, 'YIM Boston 2015' meet will emphasize to address prospects, growth, mentorship, challenges, resources and collaborations within the new/emerging academic scenario in India. Towards this, 40 + potential faculty candidates will be short listed based on their research achievements and vision statement, to present their work and interact with future faculty screening committee members.

In the last 6 years, we received over 1500 applications, and shortlisted about 300, of which over 80 are now back in India as a result of the linkages they established at YIM. Our success rate encourages us to organize this meeting every year!

Details of the meeting are below:
