

You are invited !
Celebrating Cultures at MIT: A Potluck Dinner

Thursday, November 30, 2017
6:30-8:30 pm

Building 46-6287
(Picower Institute Reading Terrace)

Open to MIT postdocs, international scholars, and their families.

Registration: Please RSVP for the event by clicking here.

Email: pda-community@mit.edu for more details.

Join in a “potluck” dinner to celebrate the diverse cultures in our MIT postdoc and international scholar community ! Please register and say how many people and the kind of food you will bring (you do not need to bring more than one dish, unless you want to.)

A “potluck” dinner is where participants prepare and bring dishes to be shared. For our event, you can bring a homemade creation or a store-bought dish. Share a delicious dish from your home region or from a culture you want to celebrate with everyone. Your dish can be an appetizer, snack, main dish, side dish, soup, dessert, or beverage. It can be meat-based, vegetarian, or vegan. Each dish should have enough portions to share for 5-6 people.

Serving utensils, plates, bowls, cups, and napkins will be provided. Also rice and bread will be provided. We will also have some non-alcoholic drinks, beer, and wine. Be sure to bring your MIT ID and government-issued ID if you want an alcoholic beverage.

We would love for you to share a You Tube link to your favorite festive music from other cultures to play at this event! Please do so when you register.

Sponsored by the MIT Postdoctoral Association, the International Scholars Office & the Building 46 Postdoctoral Association