

exhibit

Power Supply: Energy Resources in the MIT Libraries

Please join us for a community reception to celebrate the exhibit opening:

Friday, October 23, 1-3pm
Maihaugen Gallery (14N-130)

MIT's longtime interest in energy is the focus of an exhibit in the Libraries' Maihaugen Gallery. The exhibit showcases "energy resources" in the MIT Libraries that have supported and resulted from research and education throughout the Institute's history. Included are books and articles from historical collections, examples of rich working collections, theses by MIT students, and video highlighting MIT's current efforts in energy research.