

During the week of September 19th, 2016 MIT has created a comprehensive lineup of events to educate and inform students and staff on hazing and its impact on the community.

Hazing Prevention Week is here!

HAZE Viewing with Panel Discussion

HAZE follows the life and untimely death of Gordie Bailey telling a story that connects the dots between high-risk drinking and hazing. After viewing the short-documentary, a group of staff from DSL, MITPD and Mental Health will discuss the culture regarding alcohol and hazing at the Institute.

Date/Time: Monday, September, 19th 7:15-8:15pm

Location: 10-250 | Dinner will be provided.

The Wall

What is hazing? How do members of the MIT community understand hazing? Come and provide your input and learn about how the Institute defines hazing and works to prevent it.

Date/Time: Floating

Location: Lobby 10 and at other Hazing Prevention Week programs.

Where's the Line - Workshop for Staff

Student life staff and organization advisors examine the phenomenon of hazing from a social psychological perspective, learn common elements that make it problematic, and discuss hazing as a situation rather than a behavior. Through group discussion and interactive activities, participants apply this model to coaching scenarios with students and to broad hazing prevention strategies across campus.

Date/Time: Tuesday September 20th, 12:30-1:45pm

Location: W20-407 | Lunch will be provided.

Spots are limited. Please RSVP with Sarah at sfg8381a@mit.edu

Where's the Line - Community Talk

Presenter introduces the concept of emergent behavior in organizations, and the responsibility of members in careful decision-making. Students learn about the phenomenon of hazing from a social psychological perspective, learn common elements that make the joining experience either problematic or healthy, and discuss hazing as a situation rather than a behavior. Through interactive discussion, participants learn how to apply this model in their organizations to improve member satisfaction and performance.

Date/Time: Tuesday September 20th, 7:15-8:15pm

Location: 10-250 | Dinner will be provided.

Where's the Line - Coaching Students

Groups such as graduate student staff (GRA's and GRT's) and REFS examine the phenomenon of hazing from a social psychological perspective, learn common elements that make it problematic, and discuss hazing as a situation rather than a behavior. Through group discussion they apply this model to creating coachable moments with students, scenarios involving hazing in academics, administration, and loosely-defined groups.

Date/Time: Wednesday September 21st, 12:00-1:00pm

Location: W35-199 | Lunch will be provided.

Spots are limited. Please RSVP with Sarah at sfg8381a@mit.edu

Improving the Joining Experience - Workshop for Student Leaders

Participants examine the philosophy, goals and activities of the joining experience they offer to new members, and learn about the basic components necessary for a meaningful and effective joining experience. Through interactive activities and group discussion, they leave with specific practices they can apply in their organizations to improve the satisfaction and performance of members. Chapter presidents, team captains, and other organization leaders strongly encouraged to attend.

Date/Time: September 21st, 7:15-8:15pm

Location: 4-370 | Dinner will be provided.

Spots are limited. Please RSVP with Sarah at sfg8381a@mit.edu

Haze-Free Education Training

HFET is a bystander intervention based training that utilizes both online content and in-person role play to prepare students to intervene and challenge negative behaviors.

Date/Time: September 22nd, 12:00-1:00pm

Location: W20-400 | Lunch will be provided.
