Job Opportunity: Communications Intern

Overview

The Tech Catholic Community (TCC) is the official Catholic presence on the MIT campus and is comprised of undergraduate and graduate students, postdoctoral and research staff, faculty, and other affiliates at MIT. The international renown of MIT means that our community in a special way reflects the universality of the Church.

We're looking for a Communications Intern to help develop content (photographs, video, and graphics) for our Development and Social Media platforms. This is a paid-stipend internship.

What you'll do

- Take photographs and video at TCC events
- Create a seasonal magazine that will be distributed to all supporters of the community
- Collaborate with the Chaplain to develop ideas and materials for communicating TCC activities to the MIT community, and beyond.

We're looking for someone who brings

- Experience with photo and video editing
- Experience using Canva for graphic design
- Their own camera equipment (not required but preferable)

Please email Fr. Michael Medas (mmedas@mit.edu) with a cover letter and your resume, and we will be in touch!
