“From Galileo to Laudato Si’: Why Science Needs Faith”: Lecture by Br Guy Consolmagno, SJ, B.S. & M.S. MIT, PhD University of Arizona on April 3, 2023 at 7:30pm / Location: 32-155. (Stata Center). Logic and reason must always start with assumptions, and the assumptions behind science are, at their root, religious assumptions. Our core beliefs not only determine how we expect the universe to work; just as importantly they supply the motivation for the science we do, and indeed they determine why we as individuals choose to be scientists. We'll examine this theme from history to the present day.

Holy Week Schedule:

Summer Seminar: This summer, COLLIS Institute for Catholic Thought and Culture and the Lumen Christi Institute at the University of Chicago are co-organizing a summer seminar for undergraduate students at Cornell campus. The program, “Explorations in Integral Ecology: Science, Theology, Creation,” offers a weeklong intensive seminar integrating theological study with direct scientific observation of the natural world and experiences of creation. The lead instructors are Sr. Damien Savino (Dean of Science and Sustainability, Aquinas College), and Fr. Terry Ehrman (Department of Theology, University of Notre Dame). The Program is free (incl. lodging), and accepted applicants receive a $350 stipend to offset travel costs. More information is available at: lumenchristi.org/Creation
 To register call Ms. Elizabeth Lyon Hall (814) 769-1588 asap.

Women's Ministry Apostolate: Filiae Dei - Daughters of God. Our next event will be on April 7.
