

Jay Livingstone (D) is our local representative to the MA state legislature. His district includes MIT's campus and extends across the river to parts of Beacon St. His legal career spans nearly twenty years in the public and private sectors and he now serves as a state representative. In his three years as a state legislator, he has addressed many issues; fighting for causes such as workers' rights, equality of opportunity, access to early-childhood education, sustainable development, and ending discrimination.
