

Copyright Balance and Fair Use in Networked Learning: Lessons from Creators' Codes of Best Practices

Tuesday January 13th, 1:00 - 2:00 PM - 9-151 Kaufman Room

You are cordially invited by MIT TechTV to join us for an “Educause Live Seminar” that will broach the issue of copyright balance and the means of Fair Use in Networked Learning Environments.

Fair use in the classroom has been an accepted practice for many years now. With the more rapid adoption of technology to support learning, the classroom has moved beyond the traditional walls to the virtual and networked environment. What does this mean for Fair Use? Hear from Patricia Aufderheide (Professor and Director, Center for Social Media, School of Communication, American University) and Peter Jaszi (Professor of Law, American University) and their insight into this arena.

For more information on this specific seminar, visit the IAP session page at:

<http://student.mit.edu/searchiap/iap-9449.html>

Sponsored by MIT  TechTV